President Mr Yves Canessa looks forward to chair the EDA General Assembly by the opening of the "Nice Demolition" Conference

The programme of the European Demolition Association Spring Conference at Le Méridien Nice, France, from 4th-6th June 2009, has just been sent to National Associations, members of the EDA International Committee and sponsors.

After presenting the EDA results of 2008 to members at the annual General Assembly Mr Canessa will open the 2009 Spring Conference. "The professional programme is based on sharing know-how among all companies involved in demolition throughout Europe", says General Manager Ms Henriette Thuen. "During a day and a half, demolition contractors from all over Europe will present outstanding demolition projects they have carried out recently while manufacturers will present 'state-of-the-art' equipment specially designed to be used in demolition works", adds Ms Thuen.

As a part of the conference, Mr Panseri will also give a speech focusing on the EDA 1st draft report on High Reach, which will be followed by a short session of questions and answers.

The conference also offers a social part, which includes a special programme for spouses as well as a joint "after the conference" social programme.

"Nice outstands as an extraordinary venue in June", says Ms Clotilde Chacón, EDA Coordinator for Events and meetings, "good weather, easy to fly to from everywhere and very central in the European market. We have also made a big effort in order to attract as many participants as possible by keeping the same price level as last year in Istanbul both for the conference package and for the hotel rooms", Ms Chacón continues.

The full programme with registration form and hotel booking form can be downloaded from EDA website www.eda-demolition.com. Members of the IC and those who register before 2nd March will benefit from a special discount.

From mid March an updated version of programme in English, French, Italian and Spanish will be available from the EDA website.
