

Job Description: Lead Trainer/Assessor

The National Federation of Demolition Contractors is seeking an enthusiastic demolition experienced individual to undertake the role of the National Demolition Training Group's Lead Trainer/Assessor.

The NDTG is under direct control of the National Federation of Demolition Contractors, and since its formation in 1978 it has grown from strength to strength continually providing high quality training services to the entire demolition industry.

This role requires a highly motivated individual with great communication skills. The successful applicant will be required to deliver course presentations and assess candidates at operative level through to managerial level.

The successful applicant will act as the lead trainer and assessor for the National Demolition Training Group, assisting in the development of new training programmes and assessment criteria.

The role is perfect for those looking for a change in career path whilst wishing to continue working within the demolition industry.

This is an ideal opportunity for you to share your experience and knowledge of the industry with fellow new and experienced operatives. The role will allow you to continue your professional development whilst working with this prestige organisation within the Demolition Industry.

Required Skills: Organisational skills, team player, presentation skills and communication skills. The candidate must also have a keen desire to keep up to date with new legislation within the Demolition Industry.

Location: The NFDC Head Office is based in Hemel Hempstead, Hertfordshire; however this role requires continuous travel throughout the UK.

Salary: To be agreed